Versalis is Eni's chemical company operating globally in the basic and intermediate chemical sectors, plastics, rubbers and renewable sources chemistry. It is interfacing with markets through globally oriented strategies and market-driven product portfolio, emphasizing R&D and licensing activities.
The company aims to gain a leadership position in fast-growing markets by leveraging its technological and industrial expertise and by offering a wide-reaching distribution network and post-sales service activity.

Versalis C2 - C4s and Aromatics value chain options

Versalis licensing activity designed to meet customers' specific needs, with engineering services (up to BEDP/FEED), technical assistance and training.

For Versalis circularity is part of its strategy and a key factor from use of resources and processes up to product life cycles.
Versalis' portfolio of patents and proprietary technologies covers the entire field of basic chemicals and fossil-based polymers or from waste biomass. Phenol and Derivatives, Polyethylene, Styrene and Elastomers, Advanced Biofuels but also catalysts and special chemicals and cellulosic ethanol.

The Versalis' portfolio includes innovative solutions for engineering, manufacturing and supply of chemical products for the oil and gas industry at a global level with specialty oilfield chemicals.